Czech court upholds high sentences for killers of German man

ČTK / 11 MARCH 2009

Prague, March 10 (CTK) – The Prague High Court Tuesday upheld exceptional sentences imposed on three Czechs for the brutal murder of a German citizen that was committed in Karlovy Vary, west Bohemia, in June 2007.

Michaela and Filip Karbans, aged 28 and 27, were sentenced to 17.5 years in prison each and their friend Miroslav Kozmer, 25, to 16 years behind bars. The verdict has taken effect.

Michaela Karbanova invited a German man to a flat in Karlovy Vary in order to rob and kill him.

Her husband and friend murdered the man, cut his body into pieces, put them in plastic bags and buried them in the ground. The victim was repeatedly stabbed, probably with a knife and cleaver, and bled to death.

The three accomplices drew over 40,000 crowns from the man's account and tried to sell his car worth some 390,000 crowns.

Kozmer was a soldier with an elite army unit in Zatec, west Bohemia. He allegedly worked for the Karbans as their guard.

Kozmer received a slightly lower sentence than the Karbans because he showed the police where the victim was buried and helped them investigate the crime.
